

■ SATURDAY, 21 MARCH 2009

1pm Section 5:

Ethnic identities and the nation-state

Elisabeth Allès, Paris:

The status of "nationality" (minzu) in the Chinese context and the case of the Hui nationality during the 1970s and 1980s

Gerhard Simon, Köln:

Brezhnev's definitive solution of the nationalities problems during the 1970s: "There are no nationalities problems in the Soviet Union."

Aleksandar Jakir, Split:

The status of "nationality" in a "self-managed" economy during the 1970s in socialist Yugoslavia

Commentary: Jörn Leonhard, Freiburg

4pm Final discussion

Commentary:

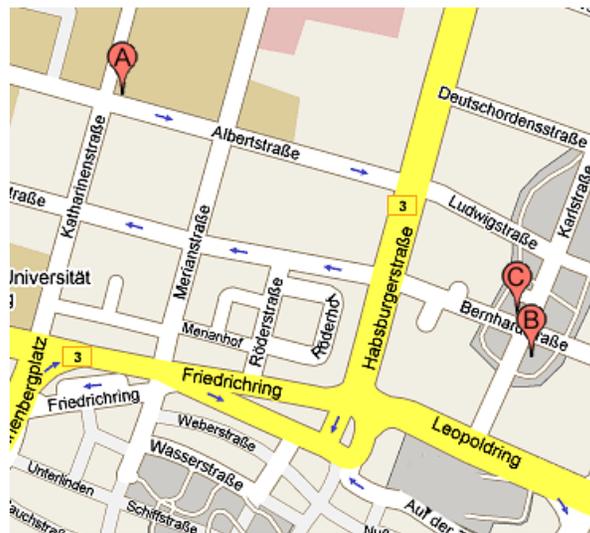

Gerd Koenen, Freiburg/Frankfurt a. M.
Manfred Hildermeier, Göttingen

■ CONTACT INFORMATION

Uta Grund
uta.grund@frias.uni-freiburg.de
Tel.: 0761/270-97377

FRIAS Freiburg Institute for Advanced Studies
Albert-Ludwigs-Universität Freiburg
Albertstr. 19
D – 79104 Freiburg im Breisgau

■ MAP OF THE AREA

- (A) FRIAS — Albertstr. 19
- (B) Stadthotel Kolping — Karlstr. 7
Phone: 0761/2088058
- (C) Hotel am Stadtgarten — Karlstr. 12
Phone: 0761/2829002

The Crisis of Socialist Modernity: China, the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia in the 1970s

19 – 21 March 2009

Location:
FRIAS seminar room • Albertstr. 19, Freiburg
www.frias.uni-freiburg.de

■ THURSDAY, 19 MARCH 2009

8pm: Opening lecture:

Lutz Niethammer, Jena:

The 1970s as a caesura?

■ FRIDAY, 20 MARCH 2009

9am Section 1:

Economic crisis and reflections on crisis management and progress

Nicola Spakowski, Bremen:

Economic reorientation in China in the 1970s: overall goals and conflicting approaches

Stephan Merl, Bielefeld:

The 'Little Deal' between the regime and the Soviet people: how Brezhnev attempted to avoid a radical reform of the command economy and the political system in the 1970s

Klaus Gestwa, Tübingen:

The limits of growth and reform: technological progress and environmental crisis in the Soviet Union

Susan Woodward, New York:

Adjustment to global economic crisis: how different was Yugoslavia in the 1970s?

Commentary: Vladimir Gligorov, Vienna

1pm Section 2:

Power and decision-making structures

Flemming Christiansen, Leeds:

China

Klaus von Beyme, Heidelberg:

The political decision-makers in the decline of 'Socialism': the discovery of citizens and political culture in the Soviet Union

Dejan Jović, Stirling, Scotland:

Post-titoism with Tito still alive: The Yugoslav political elite in the 1970s

Commentary: Martin Geyer, Munich

4pm Section 3:

After the boom: convergence, – divergence, perception of "the West" and the western orientation of culture and everyday life

Xiaowei Zang, Sheffield:

From Maoism to the Beijing Spring: Chinese society in the 1970s

Sergei Zhuk, Muncie:

The 'closed society' and the West: consumption of the western cultural products, youth and identity in Soviet Ukraine during the 1970s

Predrag Marković, Belgrad:

Flowers in the autumn: cultural liberalization versus political dogmatization in 1970's Yugoslavia

Commentary:

Wolfgang Eichwede, Bremen

■ SATURDAY, 21 MARCH 2009

9am Section 4:

The international environment and reciprocal effects

Sören Urbansky, Frankfurt/O.:

Sino-Soviet-split: a local perspective

Ragna Boden, Bochum:

Between regional and global: Soviet world policy in the 1970s

Nataša Mišković, Zürich:

The old dictator's last domain: Yugoslav foreign policy in the 1970s

Commentary:

Richard Crockatt, Norwich